

MONEY TALKS

Empower your Staff with Financial Literacy

Your team's concerns and unease around their personal finances impacts their performance at work and your organization.

Steve Bridge is an advice-only financial planner who delivers money management presentations that help your people feel less stressed- so that they can focus on their work, not their finances.

WHY IT MATTERS

Financial wellbeing is more important than ever.

The best employers understand that organizations work better when their people are healthy, happy and motivated. Physical and mental wellbeing is increasingly front-of-mind. But have you considered the impact that your people's financial health could be having on your business?

Finances are one of the biggest causes of stress for Canadians, and they're impacting your business too. Productivity, employee engagement, absenteeism, retention, even happiness - they're all negatively impacted by financial stress.

But together, we can change that.

Your people are your most valuable resource. I can work with you to deliver personal finance education that helps them feel less stressed, more secure and settled in their jobs.

Financially stressed employees are more likely to produce lower quality work.

4.9x

 50%
of Canadians

admit financial stress impacts their performance at work.

 A cash-strapped employee is

5.8x

more likely to miss deadlines.

A survey by Ipsos Reid Indicates that 78%

of Canadians want financial education in the workplace.

CLIENT TESTIMONIALS

"Steve Bridge's presentation at MNP on Financial Wellness was terrific! I was appreciative of the informative and useful content he presented. He's an excellent speaker; he was engaging with the audience, combining humour and knowledge to provide useful takeaways to implement in my day-to-day. I left his presentation feeling informed and motivated to stay on top of my financial wellness plan."

RACHEL R, MNP

"Certainly feel free to reference how well this presentation went over with our staff. I think it may still hold the highest attendance record for a single training session, and was talked about the other week by an employee who attended. My staff have mentioned how valuable it was to receive this type of training from their employer."

JESSICA B, CITY OF FORT ST. JOHN

"Steve conducted our inaugural virtual financial wellness session to accommodate our members spread across the province. The three-hour session kept the attendees engaged, and the pace was just right, allowing everyone to participate in discussions and ask questions...I received positive feedback from many participants who found the session informative and worthwhile."

MARGARET B, ALBERTA MUNICIPALITIES

"Thank you for the morning and afternoon presentations you hosted in Lacombe last week. Everyone I have spoken to after the sessions has nothing but good to say about the content and the presenter!"
